In an effort to help fund the HCMS FFA chapter, the four-legged stubborn critters will once again make their way onto the court for an evening of fun and semi competitiveness.

The event will take place on Friday, April 26, at 7 p.m., at HCMS.

Just like in 2011, the teams, Southern States, Marshall Tractor Supply, Harrison Vet Clinic and Judy Construction, will be made of various local favorites including Cynthiana Firemen, Harrison County teachers and principals, local businessmen and women and of course the donkeys.

Firefighter faces heroin charges in N. Ky.

By Ben Hyatt, News writer

A Harrison County man faces out-of-county drug charges after being arrested by Alexandria Police for possession of heroin.

The number of charges are beginning to add up against Anthony Carson, 27, after he was booked on April 4, and lodged in Campbell County Detention Center for multiple drug related charges.

According to Harrison County Sheriff's Deputy Dean Hutchison, Carson was arrested by an Alexandria police officer and charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, first degree possession of heroin, first degree trafficking a controlled substance more than two grams of heroin, carrying a concealed deadly weapon and no insurance.

ANTHONY CARSON

Carson still faces theft by unlawful taking charges in Harrison County for allegedly taking nearly $10,000 of equipment belonging to the fire districts between May 1, 2012, and Jan. 30, 2013.

Carson is scheduled to appear in court for his Harrison County charges April 22, for a preliminary hearing.

As of press-time, the Alexandria Police Department was unable to be reached for further information regarding the Alexandria incident.

Eastside's Shelley Slade has been teaching for seven years. It's a profession she never saw herself in and now can't see herself without.

Makin' the GRADE

Slade named Teacher of the Year

By Becky Barnes, Editor

"I never thought in my wildest dreams I'd be a teacher," said Shelley Slade.

The Cynthiana-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce Teacher of the Year is quick to say she had no great aspirations from her youth to be a teacher. But, now that she is, she can't think of a profession she would rather be in.

Slade, 39, who now teaches third grade at Eastside Elementary and is in her seventh year, began her journey through education while she was working two jobs, substitute teaching, full-time student at both Midway and Maysville Community Colleges.

It was a cohort program offered as a partnership between Midway and MCC that seemed feasible to the busy mother of two.

Husband Roger was the first to go through the cohort program. He lured her into the same path he was taking.

Slade earned her bachelor's degree through the accelerated program with classes on Friday nights and Saturday mornings.

"If it hadn't been for that program, I wouldn't be teaching today," Slade said.

Already providing in-home child care, Slade knew she liked working with children.

"This really doesn't seem like work," Slade said. "It feels like a part of my life."

City supports parking on portion of Church St.

By Becky Barnes, Editor

Look for changes ahead in the section of Church Street between Bridge and Pike streets.

The Cynthiana City Commission agreed Tuesday night to send a letter of support to the state Department of Transportation's plan to return parking to the east side of Church Street.

Commissioner Roger Slade told commissioners that business owner Terry Herrington had approached the state and an agreement was reached.

Cynthiana Police Chief Ray Johnson said he thought the street was wide enough to accommodate parking on one side.

In other business, the commission:

•Heard a request for funding from Jason Back, executive director of the Community Employment Opportunities (CEO).

Back said he was asking for the same amount that was given last year, $9,000.

He told commissioners that CEO served 81 clients this year and that 56 of those were Cynthiana and Harrison County residents.

CEO is also operating in Bourbon and Scott counties. However, he assured commissioners that money that came from the city and county was used for local residents.

CEO places persons with disabilities in employment opportunities.

Teacher

From TEACHER, front pg.

She said she is a firm believer in the cliche` that if you find something you enjoy, you'll never work a day in your life.

"It's true," she said. "Enjoying your work makes it easier."

She said when she first started teaching, she wanted to fix everyone.

Now that she's seven years deep in her career she said she has learned many things from her students.

One of those lessons was to loosen up.

"Sometimes I let my kids help me teach," she said. "We're all working together in that room."

She said she treasures the relationships she has formed with her students.

"We're like a family," she said of her class.

She said she tells her students on the first day of school that they are a family, they look out for each other, help each other and take care of each other.

"It's a little weird at first, but by Christmas, we're all working together," she said.

Slade said she was skillfully outwitted when it came to the Chamber awards banquet.

She was led to believe that Roger was receiving the award. So while she was secretly texting family and friends about Roger's award, Roger was going behind her and texting the same people, telling them not to believe Shelley's texts that she was actually to be the recipient.

While James Smith, friend and Chamber president, read the nomination, each Slade sat smugly listening, knowing they had the answer to a great mystery.

It wasn't until Smith referred to the recipient as "she" that Slade realized she been duped.

With generous tears spilling from her eyes, Slade hugged one of her students and nominator, Addison Peak.

Slade sees herself still teaching 10 years from now.

"I hope I'm well enough to keep doing what I'm doing," she said.

Roger and Shelley are co-owners of the Rohs Opera House, a business they operated for a few years before purchasing the building three years ago.

They have two children, Sydney, 18, a freshman at Northern Kentucky University, and Brady, 15, a freshman at Harrison County High School.

Robertses open collision repair shop

By Becky Barnes, Editor

When Cynthiana's newest auto body repair shop opened and had its ribbon cutting last week, owner Greg Roberts said it was a dream come true.

Roberts, who has 25 years of experience in auto body/collision repair, said he enjoys serving the public and looks forward to that side of his business.

After graduating from Nashville Auto-Diesel College in collision repair, he gained experience at Fortune Collision in Lexington, Church Brothers in Indianapolis and Kentucky Collision in Georgetown.

K-3 Collision is named after Greg and Jessica Roberts' three children -- Karson, Kelsey and Kali.

His new body shop, which is located at 824 KY 356 (White Oak Pike), is open Monday through Friday 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The shop features a paint booth and frame rack as well as an in-house mixing system.

All K-3 Collision customers will receive two free details each year and a lifetime warranty on all repair work, he said.

In addition to Roberts, there are two body techs also available, Frank Baker and Andy Teegarden.

K-3 is ASE certified and I-car certified.

Fiscal Court gets one step closer to 2014 budget

News Writer

Ben Hyatt

The Harrison County Fiscal Court is one step closer to finalizing its budget for 2014 after discussing county salaries.

During the second budget workshop, which was held last Tuesday, April 2, the fiscal court took a good look at salaries for county employees.

However, much time was spent discussing issues brought up by the fiscal court about the Economic Development budget and request for increase in pay for its director.

Due to certain questions being raised about pay increases for the EDA director, EDA chairman Frazer Lebus made an appearance to explain the reasoning behind the request for a raise.

According to Lebus, the EDA board, which is comprised of both city and county appointed members, is overall pleased with the work that director Darlene Bussell has done so far.

Lebus gave several examples of the successes that Bussell has brought forth in her short time in Harrison County including the sale of two properties in the business park, playing a major role in keeping EZ Pack in Cynthiana, beginning the development of a welding academy and working closely with the big businesses in Harrison County such a Bullard.

On the counter side, some fiscal court members felt that some of the ideas and closings on deals were done or in the making before Bussell was hired.

Lebus also gave statistics on how underpaid Bussell is compared to similar and surrounding counties for the same position.

According to Lebus, Scott County pays its director nearly $67,500 plus a contribution from the Chamber of Commerce.

Bourbon County, according to Lebus, pays a part-time employee $30,000.

Bussell, a county employee, currently makes $30,500 and benefits, on top of any incentives that are budgeted in the EDA's budget.

Bussell requested that her pay be increased by 10 percent for next year, which is over 8 percent higher than the overall county pay increase.

"I think she is different when it comes to pay," said Lebus. "She is unlike any other county employee in the fact of what kind of work that she does."

Despite the praise from Lebus, some fiscal court members were not ready to sign-on to the increase in pay.

Several members reminded Lebus of several conflicts that have been created since Bussell was hired.

The fiscal court members also felt that since the EDA had already voted to pay Bussell up to $6,000 a year for traveling from her home in Frankfort to work, that there was no need to increase her pay at this time.

Magistrate Jeff Brunker said that no county employee this year was asking for a raise of the same magnitude.

"We have some workers who have been here 20 years and they are very qualified in their job and they are not asking for this kind of a raise," said Brunker. "She has not even been here a year and she wants 10 percent."

The court ultimately declined the request for the 10 percent increase in pay, but did agree that she should receive the same pay increase of 1.7 percent as other salary paid employees for 2013.

All hourly paid employees will receive a 50 cent per hour increase in pay.

As for the EDA budget, three court members, Bradley Copes, Lutz and Henson voted against the budget.

However, everyone agreed that any sale of land in the business park should not be budgeted toward any special projects, but be used to make principle payments on the remaining debt on the park.

As for my thought on the issue, I think that the fiscal court did a good job in doing their homework before making a decision.

I wont say whether I agree or disagree with their choice, but I do think that times are still hard and money is tight.

I will also say that I am for the success of Bussell due to the fact that if she succeeds in her job, Harrison County and the city will benefit greatly from it.

Any jobs she may bring into the community or helping educate a better workforce only helps us address the issues of unemployment and decreasing tax money from business.

We have to remember that not all decisions are easily made, but our elected officials have done their job and I think we have to honor their decision and make the best out of it.

That is why we elect them.

Invaluable asset to Harrison County

To the editor:

Two weeks ago Cynthiana and Harrison County lost an invaluable asset with the death of Harold Slade. Harold was an original founder of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Museum and a tireless worker for historical preservation. We, the Board of Directors of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Trust, Inc., will especially miss Harold. He was our "hanger-upper" and faithful mainstay.

For those who have wondered, we have no intention of closing our Museum which was such a part of Harold's life. His was the vision of what a museum should be. We invite everyone to stop by the Museum and discover why Harold will always have our respect and admiration.

The Museum is open Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. No admission charge.

Natural Law

To the editor:

Under the guidance of our Creator, this universe was created and is guided by laws - natural laws.

Consider the following: the sun rises in the east and sets in the west. Apples fall from trees. Seeds are planted in the soil to grow and produce fruit. Fish swim in water. Birds fly in the sky. Man and animals were made, male and female, to multiply and increase to enjoy this world.

Man was made to love our Creator and one another. Love is there to assist one another in whatever their vocation in life. Some marry and procreat children, some elect to live a single life to aid each other to live a happy life.

Now look at the "unnatural life." Can the sun rise in the west and set in the east? Can fish fly in the air? Can birds swim in water, or can trees bare fruit without a seed? Can children be created without the love of a male and female parent?

Consider how our Creator made this life by establishing rules to live by, to respect life and one another. Natural laws are implanted in our very being to guide us in life.

Think about an inventor who makes a highly intrinsic item. He sells it with instructions to help us understand and use what was made. God, our Creator has done basically the same thing. He gave us instructions to help us to live a happy life. His instructions are found in the Bible and tradition. God has given us this wonderful world to like what He made - take care of it - respect life.

Revisions need to be made on pain medication laws

To the editor:

I am writing to inform you of a recent viewing on WKYT, April 1, 2013, regarding "Fight For Kentucky Pain Care Action Network." We are a group that is pushing for a revision of House Bill-1 and House Bill-217, related to those whom are suffering from chronic intractable pain. As it is now, cancer, elderly, and hospice patients can receive the treatment they need for pain. Our group is ecstatic that we are partially responsible for these revisions to have taken place. However, we feel strongly that more revisions should be implemented to not exclude those whom are legitimately suffering from paid.

Examples of this would be to include various age ranges and painful physical conditions. It is a mutual understanding that these Bills are to stop prescription drug abuse, but the manners which are being taken are grossly overboard.

We are aware of many false statements to the general public pushing for these Bills to be passed. We urge the government to be truthful regarding the actual figures. The current figures being given resulting in deaths in Kentucky, are also including illicit drug use, prescription medications being stolen from others, and the use of alcohol with or without the use of prescription medication.

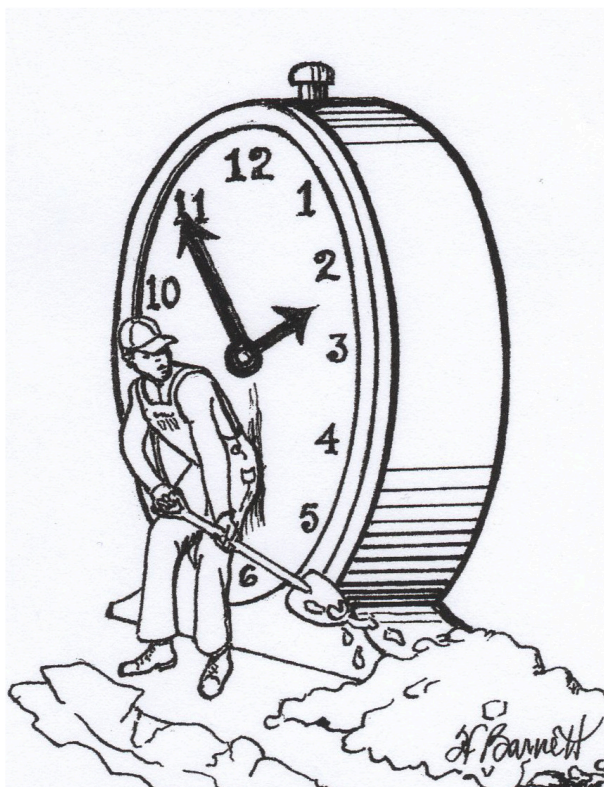

According to the CDC, the majority of prescription drug abuse lies between the ages of 16/17-25 whom are not prescribed these medications. We have locks and safety cabinets for guns. Should we not have locking medicine cabinets? Could we not have pill counts or weekly rationings, instead of allowing legitimate painful conditions to continue without proper treatment? This is resulting in many not being able to function, decreasing their quality of life.

WKYT posted on their website Nov. 29, 2012 at 9:01 p.m. with the headline, "State police warn heroin use in Central Kentucky on the rise." In this post, Trooper Turley stated, "We have been drying up pill mills and now we have people going right to heroin." Those suffering from legitimate intractable pain should be allowed to receive proper treatment verses resorting to illegal activity. Many members of our group have sent multiple letters and e-mails to local and state officials pertaining to this issue. Each response we have received has been an exact vague duplicate as other members have received, that does not address our specific concerns. Each member addressed different issues regarding their conditions and concerns, yet we have not been treated as individuals. We would greatly appreciate any help you would provide to address this concern.

Judges agree heroin is quickly becoming drug of choice

A special Champions community meeting was held Monday at the Cynthiana Christian Church with local judges discussing the ever-growing drug problems in Cynthiana and Harrison County.

Retired Judge David Melcher served as moderator presenting topics for discussion to each of the presiding judges: Jay Delaney (circuit court), Barbara Paul (family court), and Bill Kuster (district court).

Delaney said a grant study was done in 2004 that determined that 75 percent of the cases in circuit court are due to illegal drug use.

He said that number would be even greater today.

Kuster estimated his case load at 60 percent for drug-related cases.

He noted that he may have an assault case that is the result of drug use.

In family court, the instances are much less by the nature of the court structure.

Paul said many of her court cases are divorces and most of those are not attributed to drug use. However, she noted that the domestic violence cases are usually both impaired by alcohol.

She also deals with abuse and neglect cases. Of those she estimated that 90 percent would involve illegal drugs.

Melcher asked the judges how House Bill 456 changed sentencing and how effective the law is in getting drug offenders out of the court system.

Delaney explained that the new law targets possession cases, of which circuit court does not have a lot.

Kuster said that even before HB456, a procedure was in place in district court to get treatment for offenders.

If they complete a drug treatment program that time can be applied towards their sentence.

When asked how Champions or the community could help, Kuster said it would be beneficial for more education and intervention, particularly at the high school level.

He said some organizations and charities are paying for treatment. However, there is a problem if an individual has to wait for a state bed or insurance approval.

"They need to go for help right then," he said.

Retired Judge David Melcher, left, served as moderator for Monday's Champions Town Meeting. He was joined by his wife Anne, and panelist Judge Barbara Paul.

Paul said there used to be funding to help with the treatment costs. Then, she said, she had 60 families complete the program and only a few have come back.

Now, Social Services pays for drug testing, but the support for these individuals is not there without the added funding.

She added that her case load has quadrupled since she took office.

Delaney sees felony cases in circuit court. However, he also works with drug court and tries to get treatment for offenders.

He said he has found the best treatment is getting these people employed.

He said there is always a need for employers who are willing to take on these individuals.

The drug of choice has evolved over the years.

Kuster said the current drug of choice is heroin.

Officials suspect that heroin is coming from the north and that the cost of pills is much higher than heroin.

Delaney said that a recent drug bust in neighboring Pendleton County netted at least 40 heroin cases.

He said Harrison County abusers are still predominately using pills. However, he said its usage is on the rise.

Cindy Warr, director of Refuge for Women, introduced a woman in her early 20s who talked about her life as an addict and a victim of the sex industry.

Debbie's mother was 15 years old with a drug and alcohol problem when she gave birth to Debbie. Most of her family members were also addicts.

At 9 years old, Debbie was removed from the family and put into the system.

She said she was raped many times and had other horrific things done to her.

By that time she had lost all self worth and had been introduced to drugs on several occasions.

At 18, Debbie started using cocaine, ecstasy and meth.

She married, had children then left them. She remarried and had two more children.

She was then introduced to dancing.

She put her children up for adoption because she doubted her ability to be a good mother.

She said she was in and out of the court system, but she said she always knew that God was with her or she wouldn't still be around today.

Eventually she began shooting meth into her veins from a needle.

She remembers waking up in a hospital and the nursing staff claiming they had no idea how she had survived the night.

She said she should have been dead. Her kidneys and liver were badly damaged.

She became pregnant again and planned for an adoption from the beginning because she still doubted her ability to be a good parent.

She continued drinking and dancing until, at six months pregnant, she asked God to give her a reason to be a good mom.

She said she woke up one morning and knew she needed to get away.

Three years ago, she didn't know why God led her away. Today she knows.

She said there was a group of "church ladies" handing out pamphlets at the club where she worked. Three years ago she took that pamphlet and boarded a bus from Chicago to Lexington to enter the Refuge for Women shelter.

She completed her program, became a mentor and taught herself to be the mother she never believed she could be.

She teaches youth group and helps other women while she raises her 14-month-old daughter.

She is now going through training at the first Refuge home to be on staff for the second home that is being remodeled in Harrison County.

Warr added that Refuge for Women is a faith-based program that allows the women a sanctuary at no cost to them.

She said that of the 60 women who have completed the four-level program 60 percent have not returned to the lifestyle and 55 percent remain clean and sober.

Judge Alex Barnett closed the evening with announcements.

He reminded all those present that the regular monthly meeting of Champions is held on the second Monday at the Sheriff's office at 5:30 p.m. The next meeting will be May 13.

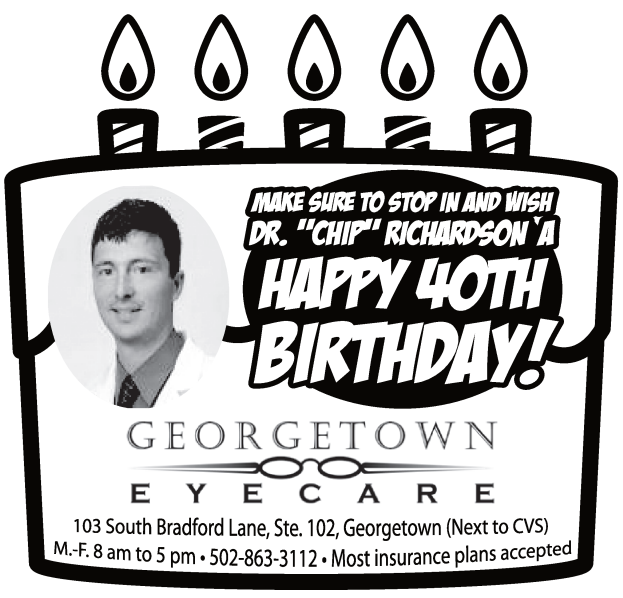

Friday Night Flicks will be starting in June at Flat Run Veterans' Park, he said. This is sponsored by Champions and Living Hope Church.

Harrison County District Judge Bill Kuster and Circuit Judge Delaney served as panelists for the Champions meeting. Joining them are Commonwealth attorney Doug Miller and Gary Sandy.

Counselor hopes to help others find sense of peace

By Ben Hyatt, News writer

Vickie Whalen hopes to help others find the same kind of joy she has through offering new pastorale counseling.

Despite the general, popular feeling toward counseling, Whalen is certain that everyone needs some kind of counseling in their daily lives.

"I grew up in a dysfunctional family," recalled Whalen. "I saw the same dysfunctions in my own family and knew that I had brought it with me and wanted to be rid of it."

According to Whalen, many individuals suffer everyday from the burdens that they try to carry all alone.

Whether it be problems at home, addiction or work related issues, sometimes simply speaking about it provides a relief unlike any other.

VICKIE WHALEN

"Counseling is a great thing to have because it allows you to have someone on your side," explained Whalen. "Sometimes we just need someone to listen to our problems. There is nothing weird or wrong with that at all."

Whalen received her certification to counsel others about a year ago as well as becoming an ordained minister.

Whalen said she is not biased to any denomination or individual who is seeking counseling.

"I will talk to anyone whether they be a leader in a church or someone who is on the fence about becoming a believer," said Whalen. "It's a safe place to talk without having to wear all the masks that we hide behind each and every day."

According to Whalen, her counseling differs from others in the fact that her certification allows her to discuss religion .

"I don't throw anything onto someone," said Whalen. "But we will talk about the Lord at some time or another."

Whalen said she will often use scripture taken from the Bible to shed light on issues that cause trouble.

"The world is becoming a harder place to live in and the answer to all things is in front of us," said Whalen. "Sometimes we just need it pointed out."

Whalen closed by saying that she hopes to help others find a sense of peace and joy in life that makes living that much sweeter.

To contact Whalen about counseling services call 859-298-9879 or email her at vickiewhalen2000@gmail.com.

Whalen offers individual, marriage and group counseling.

Bridge's condition raises concern

By Ben Hyatt, News writer

Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett has declared a state of emergency due to the poor conditions of a bridge located on Two Lick Road.

According to Barnett, the state bridge inspector has lowered the maximum capacity from 18 tons to only three tons for the bridge.

Due to Kentucky law, the county must first advertise for bids to repair the bridge since tax dollars are being used.

However, because the bridge is in such an unsafe condition for school buses and farm equipment to pass over, the court agreed that the bridge should be repaired immediately.

A motion was made and passed to allow E&H Bridges and Ron's Concrete to install a new bridge using state emergency money, which should cover approximately 80 percent of the cost.

The county also agreed to purchase a 2004 Ford truck from US 27 Auto for the Animal Shelter, and to hire three part-time seasonal workers for the Parks and Recreation.

Finally, Barnett reminded the court that on April 16, from 9:30 a.m., until 2 p.m., the state treasurer will provide a list at the Harrison County Extension office of all the unclaimed property with the last known address to be in Harrison County.

TREASURE FINDER'S Pictured above are Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett and Kentucky Treasurer Todd Hollenbach. Hollenbach was in Harrison County Tuesday, April 9, for a formal presentation of over $900,000 in unclaimed property. As part of "Spring cleaning, the state vault," Hollenbach and Barnett will be present at the Harrison County Extension Office April 16, at 9:30 a.m., with the list of residents in Harrison County who have unclaimed property as well as instructing them the process of reclaiming the property. The program, which was created by Hollenbach in 2009, has returned $76 million worth of claims. Anyone interested in knowing if they have unclaimed property, possibly from inactive bank accounts or property of deceased family members, should attend the event. For additional information about the event contact the judge's office at 234-7136.

I never know what the day will bring me. But I do know this. I've trained and spent years practicing what to look for. The first half of any great patient outcome is an accurate diagnosis. Harrison Memorial Hospital has invested in technology which allows us to dig deeper, search harder and find what we're looking for. Our 64-slice CT scanner, our digital mammography, and our Dexascan technology each help to uncover the problem and then treat it early and effectively. Searching for clues is my job, and if you're looking for a hospital, I'd suggest you search no further.

Barnett to host Omega's May meeting

The April meeting of Preceptor Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was held on Monday, April 1 in the community room in Clifton Village. Pat Terhune was hostess for the evening.

Officers for the coming year were elected and are as follows: Bonnie Teater-president, Betty Kay McCullough-vice president, Nancy Deitemeyer-recording secretary, Rosemary Lucas-corresponding secretary, Linda Root-treasurer, and Pat Terhune-Extension officer.

Plans for a brunch to be held later in the month for the residents of Clifton Village were completed.

Teater was in charge of the program. The theme this year is You Are Among Friends and the program gave us an insight as to the importance that all kinds of friends are needed. Teater started out with a personality test and then reviled to us what it told about us and showed the different types of personalities that are in our group to make us a well-rounded group.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Patsy Barnett.

Project includes: a new line from the vicinity of the water plant site along the South Licking River to a connection with the city sewer at Main and Bridge streets which will also provide sewer service to the Abdallah Park area; diverting on Pike Street Sonley Heights and Grandview Subdivision to a new interceptor line along Oddville Avenue.

KFB seeks nominees for Farmer of the Year

The 2013 Kentucky Farm Bureau (KFB) "Farmer of the Year" application process is now open, and the organization is seeking the Commonwealth's finest nominees for this prestigious award.

KFB initiated a "Farmer of the Year" awards program as a way to recognize its members for their commitment to excellence in agriculture, efficiency in farming practices, sound financial management and outstanding leadership in their county Farm Bureau and other civic organizations. Eligibility and guidelines are included with the application, and can be downloaded at kyfb.com/federation/. All applications must be postmarked by July 1.

Entries will be narrowed down to the top three applicants over the summer, and finalists will be announced in mid-August. Judges will visit the three finalists in mid-September to conduct interviews and see their operations in action. The winner will be announced at the organization's 2013 state annual meeting in Louisville on December 6.

KFB's "Farmer of the Year" will receive $1,000 from Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation and will be presented with a commemorative award during the organization's annual meeting in December. State finalists will receive $250 from Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

In addition to the statewide recognition and prizes, KFB's "Farmer of the Year" winner will represent Kentucky in the Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo Southeastern Farmer of the Year contest, the South's most prestigious agricultural award, in Moultrie, Georgia, October 14-16, 2014. The state winner will also receive $2,500 from Swisher International and a $500 gift certificate from Southern States Cooperative.

Kentucky's winner will compete against nine other state winners for the chance to win a $15,000 award from Swisher International and several other sponsor-based prizes.

Match mulching material with plant's needs

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist
www.SwallowRailFarm.com

Mulch has become a landscape staple, almost to a fault when it is over applied, smothering roots and girdling trunks.

When done properly, it can help to suppress weeds, retain moisture and moderate temperature.

These things can be achieved using a variety of materials, but which type of mulch suits your needs best?

Predominately we use organic materials for mulching.

Organic mulches include plant or animal-derived materials like wood chips, pine needles, tree bark, grass clippings, composted manure, and worm castings.

Organic materials have the benefit of looking natural while adding varying amounts of nutrients to the soil. I personally prefer a mulching material that is nutrient rich so it improves the soil and provides food for the plant while serving its other practical applications.

Inorganic mulching materials include stones, gravel, landscape fabrics, plastics and even recycled tires.

While these may last longer, they do not always provide the look that a homeowner wants for their landscape.

Because they take less maintenance, they are more often seen in high traffic or municipal areas than around our homes.

Most things serve a purpose if used properly, but there are some concerns with certain inorganic mulching materials and their ability to allow a seasonal warm up and cool down of a plant's root system.

When we mulch to moderate soil temperature, we are usually mindful of keeping the roots cool in the summer. In the winter months, however, I think there is a mixed message about what mulch will achieve.

Organic mulches used properly, 2 to 2 ½ inches deep, typically allow for the proper warming and cooling of the soil as winter turns to spring and fall turns to winter.

Inorganic mulches, however, may cause some delay in the process resulting in winter damage.

In the article Using Mulches in Managed Landscapes (a cooperative effort by Iowa State University, Ohio State University and University of Kentucky) the authors state, "Mulch effects on root zone temperature, as well as any potential benefits or consequences for plants, will vary considerably depending on factors such as properties of mulch, soil type, soil moisture, plant species or cultivar, and weather patterns."

I bet you never realized that the type of mulch you choose could have such an effect on the plant you are trying to care for.

I mention all this because we need to understand that mulch can create an environment that may make it difficult for the plant to acclimate accordingly from season to season.

Too much mulch before the ground freezes is like having a bikini on underneath your full-length fur.

Take the coat off and you're in for a shock once winter hits.

A plant's root system needs to cool down and slowdown in order to sufficiently go dormant before you mulch the area to prevent heaving and thawing.

Always wait for several hard freezes before you apply mulch for moderating winter soil temperatures.

The same thing can happen in the summer if certain types of materials are used as mulch.

Wait until the soil has a chance to warm up a bit before you apply mulch, otherwise, you may insulate the cool soil and delay the warm up, thus delaying plant growth.

The use of various inorganic mulches can really fool plants, too.

Using black plastic, for instance, is like keeping the fur coat on all summer, not to mention that it doesn't allow for healthy amounts of oxygen to reach the root system. This can cause double trouble once winter rolls around again, too.

The plant will be slow to go dormant because the root system is still warm and therefore it will be more susceptible to winter damage.

Even using crushed brick, rock or pea gravel may speed up the warming process in the spring.

The University Extension article on mulches cited an example where a red maple broke dormancy early in the spring (around here that means it would likely suffer from late frost damage) likely due to the brick and pea gravel's capacity to conduct heat to the underlying soil.

Gradual warming and cooling of the soil is best and mulch should be used to moderate the soil temperature seasonally.

None of this is to say that you should not use certain materials as mulch, however match them up accordingly with what you want to achieve and what the cultural realities are for your plants.

Use black plastic around your tomato plants, these annuals love warm soil and they only live a short time.

I would avoid using it with anything that lives longer than a couple of months, though.

Harrison Circuit Clerk's office celebrates Donate Life Month in April

"This April, and every day, I am proud of the impact this office has on the lives of others, especially those in need of life-saving organ transplants. I am humbled at the generosity of our community," says Harrison County Circuit Clerk Kathy Kearns. "Even through tough economic times, our community is committed to helping others."

The Circuit Court Clerk's office plays a vital role in helping patients in need. With nearly 1,000 Kentuckians on the waiting list for an organ transplant, the need is greater than ever. The driver's license clerks ask every person obtaining a license or ID to donate $1 to the Kentucky Organ Donor Program and if they wish to be a registered organ donor.

"I am honored to announce that in 2012, 492 Harrison County residents gave hope to patients in need by becoming registered organ donors," explains Kearns.

Out of 4,464 licenses issued last year, the Harrison County driver's license staff collected $2,282 to help the Circuit Clerk's organ donor awareness program. These dollar donations go to a separate non-profit it called the Trust For Life. With these funds, the Trust educates Kentucky about the life-saving mission of organ donation through community outreach programs, public speaking, and advertising efforts.

Each day 18 people die awaiting a life-saving organ transplant. The Circuit Clerk's office and the dedicated residents of Harrison County are working to end the wait and save more lives. As of January 2013, Kentuckians who renew their license can have a blue organ donor heart printed on their ID.

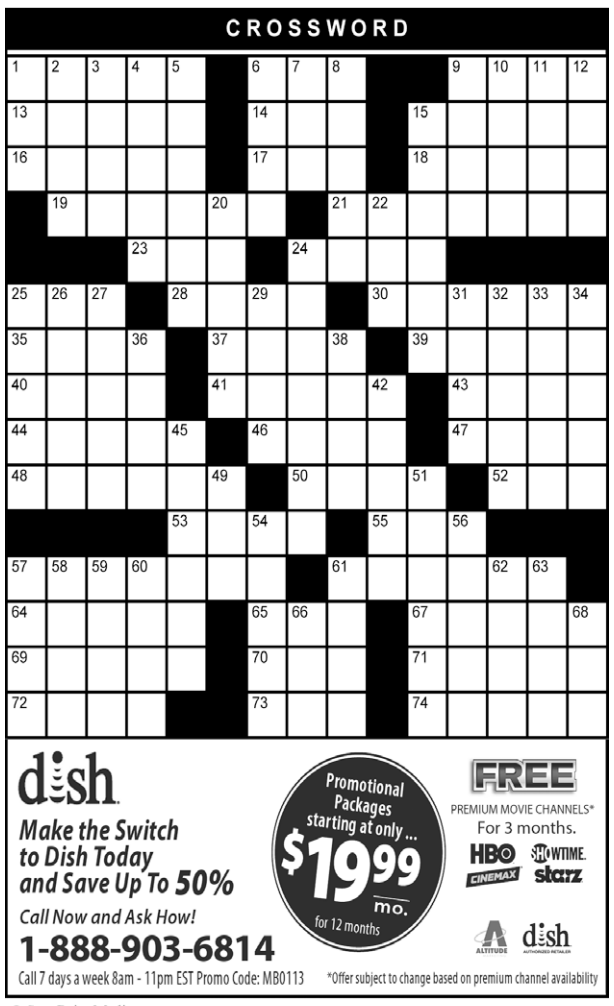

"Every heart we print, gives hope to patients in need. We hope everyone will understand that you no longer have to sign the back of your license or use an orange dot. Simply say YES when you renew your ID to add your name to the confidential Kentucky Organ Donor Registry," explains Kearns.

Any adult Kentucky resident can join the Kentucky Organ Donor Registry at their Circuit Court Clerk's office or online at www.donatelifeky.org. Any Harrison County person touched by the mission of organ donation is encouraged to tell their Gift of Life story through the Trust For Life website www.trustforiife.org.

The Kentucky Circuit Court Clerks' Trust For Life is a 501C(3) non-profit organization that informs, educates, and encourages Kentuckians to be registered organ and tissue donors to save lives. For more information call 1-866-945-LIFE, email info@trustforlife.org or go to www.trustforlife.org. Shelley Snyder, Executive Director, can be reached by cell phone at 502-322-5401.

Grace Notes

I listen to a weekly podcast on NPR called "Pop Culture Happy Hour," four people discussing movies, TV, music and other pop culture topics.

At the end of every show they go around the table and say what's making them happy that week.

The rule is that they share something in the pop culturesphere that other people, such as their podcast listeners, can participate in so they can be happy, too. They might mention a new (or old) book or movie, an upcoming event, a fun Website. Sometimes they share something personal, which is always fun because it's a chance to get to know these people a little better.

Besides, there are enough not-happy moments in life and this is a great way to end their show each week. So, I thought I'd try that this week and tell you what's making me happy.

•Mad Men Season 6!

•I make a really good baked eggplant dish that's tomatoey and sweet, and it makes my husband happy, which makes me happy.

•When I leave for work in the morning I have a view of a lake between some trees. Sometimes when it's cold out there's a layer of mist on top of the water. Sometimes the sky is yellow and orange and lavender. Sometimes the water is bright blue, depending on what time I leave the house. Whatever time I leave, that view always makes me happy and I thank God that he allows me to see it.

•A week or so ago I was bothered by something that I've since forgotten. At the time a friend suggested that I go shopping — she knows how much I love shopping. It made me happy to tell her that I hadn't bought anything other than groceries in weeks, and that I hadn't wanted to. It made me extremely happy that I was happy without shopping. It makes me happy when I realize that Jesus is better than even a sweater that's 60 percent off.

•There's a certain color palette of grayish blues that makes me very happy. It's the color of winter or maybe the ocean on a cloudy day. It's soft and soothing, and restful to my eyes. A few years ago I found a duvet cover the exact shade of this grayish blue, so I go to bed and wake up surrounded by this restful color.

•Being near water renews and restores me. One day at work I was having a tough day, so I finished early and went and sat on a bench in the sun by the lake near my house. I sat for maybe an hour, not thinking about anything except how water renews my soul.

•My laptop makes me happy.

•The giant manatee out in front of our local wildlife park makes me happy. Every holiday someone dresses it up — bunny ears for Easter, Santa hat for Christmas — and I take a photo of it to send to my daughter, who loves manatees. When she was a kid she painted a dinner plate with a Nativity scene, and baby Jesus looks a lot like a manatee. We call it the Jesus Plate — and that also makes me happy.

•I have an apple green iPod that accidentally went through the washing machine about a year ago. It took a while to dry out in a bag of rice, but it works perfectly, which makes me happy. My husband and I listen to downloaded sermons sometimes when we're out driving. A good sermon makes me happy.

•Having someone say, "I prayed for you today," makes me happy. I know of one person who prays for me every day, and just thinking about that makes me smile. Lord knows I need all the prayers I can get.

•Romans 4:7-8 says: "Happy are those whose wrongs are forgiven, whose sins are pardoned." To know that my past is wiped clean and so is my present and future, to rest in the security of God's mercy and grace, to trust that his forgiveness is without limit, to know that in Christ "there is therefore no condemnation," well, that makes me happy.

What's making you happy?

Fillies lose second straight with 10-3 loss to Bourbon

Coppage hits two more home runs

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Bourbon County Lady Colonels improved their record to 8-2 Tuesday night as they defeated the Harrison County Fillies 10-3 on Shirley Field.

Senior Ashley Coppage put the Fillies on the board first with a solo home run in the bottom of the first inning after the Lady Colonels did not score in the top half.

The top of the second was the beginning of the Harrison County problems. They committed four errors in the inning along with five Bourbon County base hits. The visiting squad also sent 12 batters to the plate scoring seven runs to take a 7-1 advantage.

Fillies' starter Jami Davis should have been out of the inning unscathed as an error at center and then one at second allowed the first two batters to reach base.

The next batter drove the runners in with a double but Wagner struck out, which would have been the third out with no runs scored.

Instead, it was the first out and two more hits and two more errors later the Fillies were seriously behind.

Harrison County got one run back in the bottom of the second when Sydney Motell singled and advanced to second on an error followed by Shelby Ishmael's RBI double to right. But the next three batters struck out ending the threat.

The Fillies loaded the bases with one out in the third and no one out in the fifth but failed to score as Bourbon County intentionally walked Coppage in both innings and the Fillies could not get the key hit.

The Lady Colonels added three more in the fifth for a 10-2 lead and only Coppage's second home run in the bottom of the seventh, her seventh of the season, changed the total to 10-3.

Bourbon County gathered 10 runs with 11 hits and five Harrison County errors.

The Fillies had only six base hits, two each by Coppage and Motell, three runs and Bourbon County committed two errors.

The Fillies fall to 7-2 heading to Corbin for the Lady Red Hounds Classic on Friday and Saturday.

Breds Florida baseball trip dampened by rain

The Harrison County Thorobreds Spring Break trip to Florida was educational but there wasn't much baseball played due to the weather.

After losing in the opener on Monday, April 1, to Crestview, 10-0, the weather eliminated the rest of the ball games that were scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday. Tuesday was already planned for a trip to the Pensacola Naval Air Station and National Aviation Museum. The Air Station is the home of the famous Blue Angels.

After the Wednesday game with Gulf Breeze and the Thursday game with Niceville were cancelled, the Harrison County contingent returned to Kentucky.

The Thorobreds resume play Wednesday with a jv/varsity match up with Paris on the Hilltop. This weekend will see the Hometown Pharmacy/Frank Shoop Invitational at the high school with the Breds facing Simon Kenton on Thursday and Franklin County on Friday, both games beginning at 5:15 p.m. The Saturday games are to be determined depending on the winners of the earlier games. Shelby County, Tates Creek and Conner are also in the Invitational.

Harrison County Alums make it two in a row over Bourbon County Saturday

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Harrison County football alumni team only put seven points on the board Saturday night in Paris but thanks to a stout defense and some booming Rodney Dryden punts that was all they needed to defeat arch rival Bourbon County 7-2.

The Bourbon County team, which was a combination of Paris High School and Bourbon County High School called the Pride, scored first in the game on a punt attempt by the Harrison County team which did not make it out of the end zone.

The two-point safety with 11:51 left in the second quarter was to be the only points scored by the Pride in the game.

The score also caused the Harrison County alums to change from a rugby style punting scheme to the regular punt which allowed protection from the rush in the variety of football.

According to the rules of the alumni game, the defense could not rush a conventional punt and the number of defensive players allowed to rush the passer was limited to four. This rule too was to play a role in the game at a later time.

After the Sean Espinola kick that followed the safety, the Harrison County defense led by Josh Ashbrook and Leo Kearns held the Pride on downs forcing the Bourbon County team to punt the ball back.

Paul Warford received the punt and dashed around the right side to the Pride 30-yard line where Khalid Abdullah pulled him down from behind causing a fumble.

The loose ball was grabbed by Harrison County's Kyle Gaffney and carried the rest of the way for six points for the Thorobreds alumni team.

Chris Marsh's extra point was good and with six and one half minutes to play in the first half, the score was 7-2 in favor of the visiting Thorobreds.

The game, from this point forward, became a defensive battle.

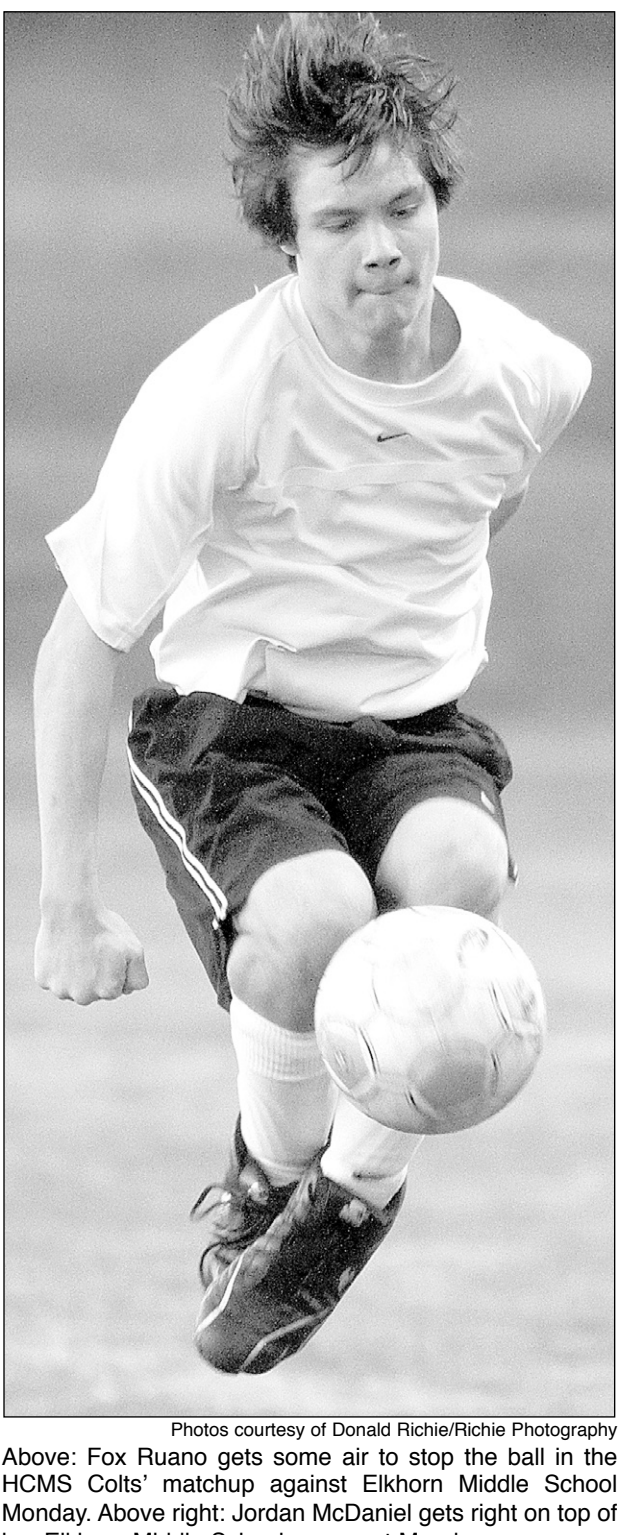

Thorobreds quarterback Van Isaac was able to connect on a couple of short passes to Espinola and Derrick Dye, but the constant pressure put on by the Pride defense, especially Abdullah, did not allow Isaac time to set up.

The Harrison County ground game with Kearns and Jamar Talbott running the ball was able to move the ball enough for Dryden's punts to keep the Bourbon County bunch in poor field position.

The Pride team did threaten early in the fourth period following a fumbled exchange from center to quarterback, which gave them the ball on the Thorobreds' 30 yard line. The home team drove the ball to the 10 yard line but an interception by Espinola in the end zone ended the threat.

Coach Ray Graham's defense gave up very little yardage in the game despite being on the field for extended periods of time due

Rose honored in Sunday celebration at First United Methodist Church

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The day after his 90th birthday, the Rev. Jimmie Rose delivered the sermon at the First United Methodist Church in Cynthiana.

One might say that is great news and all but why is this on the sports page?

The answer to that question is Jimmie Rose is an icon of basketball in Kentucky high school laurels as well as a minister/evangelist of renown.

At the age of 20, Jimmie Rose led the Olive Hill High School Comets basketball team to the state tournament semi finals where they lost to Wallace "Wah Wah" Jones and Harlan 29-26.

In the quarter finals of that tournament, the Olive Hill team defeated the team that was favored to win the title, the Brooksville Polar Bears.

Rose is the youngest coach ever to coach a team in the state tournament. But that is not the only first or record that Jones and the Olive Hill team holds in the Kentucky High School record books.

The 1946-47 Olive Hill team had a season record of 49 wins and four defeats, which is the record for wins in a season.

Rose said the year after this season, the KHSAA set a limit on the number of games that could be played in the regular season.

"My boys just wanted to play ball and I found some games for them to play," said Rose.

Another example of finding a game to play came in a move that was actually against state law when Rose scheduled a home and home series with Booker T. Washington High School of Ashland, Ky.

In the 1940's it was illegal for a public high school to play against an all black school, which was the case with Booker T. Washington.

"We were never treated any better by any school we visited," said Rose. "I was never criticized at all for this by anyone."

Jimmie Rose went on to coach in Paris in 1948 where his team won the 10th Region in 1949 going on to the state tournament where they finished fourth.

In those years, the state tournament had a consolation game to determine third and fourth places.

The Greyhounds, under Rose, defeated Madisonville and the all-time great Frank Ramsey in the quarter finals before losing to Cliff Hagen and the Owensboro Red Devils in the semi finals.

Louisville St. Xavier defeated the Paris team in the consolation game.

This Paris team featured three of the players

Breds basketball holds awards banquet at center court

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

Coach Larry Kendall and the staff of the Harrison County basketball Thorobreds hosted the team in the annual awards banquet Tuesday night at the high school.

This ceremony, different from the others, was held on the basketball floor at center court where the team spent many hours over the past years.

The six seniors who toiled together for the past four years prompted Coach Kendall to hold the program where they had molded together as a team.

The awards program followed a wonderful meal of barbeque, beans, slaw and dessert provided by the basketball boosters. The awards were as follows:

Academic Awards

First Team with a cumulative GPA of 3.5 or higher; Grant Carr (3.92), Brandon Case (3.96), Marly Jenkins (4.0), Madelyn Judy (3.8), Scott Kendall (3.92), Jordan Martin (3.9), Dillon Pulliam (4.0), Robbie Stroub (4.0), Jordan Stubbs (3.8), John VanHook (3.9).

Honorable Mention with a 3.25 GPA were: Haley Carr, Sam Levi, Austin Short, and Trenton

Harrison County archers that received metals in their division were, from left: Macy Robles, placed secnd with a score of 291, Kaitlin Farthing, placed fifth in KHSAA with a score of 289, and Steven Oaks placed fourth with a score of 283, out of a possible 300. Harrison County Middle and High School Archery teams will be competing in the National Archery Tournament May 10-11 in Louisville.

to the offense's inability to move the ball.

Abdullah and quarterback Chris Griggs attempted to run the ball wide to take advantage of their speed but Rumeal Lewis twice made tackles for losses making for third and long yardage situations.

The last drive for Bourbon County's Pride was aided by a penalty against Harrison County for rushing too many men with only one minute and 30 seconds left.

But on the next play, Bourbon County was penalized for illegal procedure negating the previous gain.

Griggs was sacked trying to pass to end the last series for the Pride and Harrison County ran out the clock for the victory.

The alumni series now stands at 2-0 in favor of the Thorobreds.

A portion of the game's proceeds were given to Paris High School along with another portion going to St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis.

Rose

that Rose calls his "all time best players": Rose's brother, Gayle Rose, who went on to play for Adolph Rupp at the University of Kentucky, Eugene Cain and Dr. Bobby Blake.

The remainder of Rose's "best" comes from his Olive Hill team, Dr. Lonnie Howerton Jr., and Jack Holley.

All five of these gentlemen were in attendance Sunday in Cynthiana.

Other players who were also in attendance Sunday were Price Huston and William "Hot Shot" Hudnall of Paris and "the best manager a team could ever have," Charles Rogers of Olive Hill High School.

The former players came from as far away as Wilson, N.C., and Beaver Creek, Ohio, to honor their former coach.

Former players were not the only admirers who were in attendance Sunday, both for the church service and the birthday dinner celebration that followed the service.

Three former Paris cheerleaders, each of whom appeared able to lead the cheers today, came to Cynthiana to honor Jimmie Rose. Patsy Harney Coons, Marjorie Forsythe Wornall and Susan Allen Williams came to Cynthiana to honor the very appreciative Rose.

Rose's sister Carol Sue Wile and his wife of many years, Jo Ann, were also in the church for the celebration.

Jo Ann, who was "the prettiest girl in town" (Olive Hill) has been along side of Rose for his basketball and his experiences as a minister and an evangelist.

Rose's last year of coaching basketball was 1950.

In February of 1950, the Rev. Earl Curry, who was once the minister in Cynthiana's First United Methodist Church, drove Rose and some friends to a revival at Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky.

Jimmie Rose, whose previous meaningful church experience was the year he sat behind Jo Ann at church to attract her attention, was won over by Jesus that night and gave up coaching to become whatever the Lord wanted of him.

Rose remarked in his sermon on Sunday 'that my fellow coaches thought I had lost my mind."

On Sunday, April 6, Jimmie Rose preached on the day after his 90th birthday. The number of people in attendance from a career that lasted only a few short years was a testimony to the man that Jimmie Rose was when he coached and after his coaching days were over.

The Sunday afternoon birthday celebration was attended by former players, cheerleaders and family members as well as the adopted family members of the First United Methodist Church.

A wonderful meal and great fellowship was had by all. Jimmie Rose, at 90, was able to greet each person and call them by name. Each person was a special friend to Rose and he was sincere in his appreciation of each person who attended.

Thompson.

Coach Kendall, when making the presentations, noted that not having to be concerned with academic problems made the coaching job easier for him and the staff.

The scoring award went to junior Dillon Pulliam who averaged 13.6 points per game. Pulliam also was the team leader in rebounding with 165, 62 of which were offensive.

Senior Scott Kendall led the Thorobreds in three categories each that would be associated with the point guard position.

Kendall had 2.2 steals per game, 73 in all; 3.3 assists per game, 110 over all; and 2.4 deflections per game, which is 79 total for the season.

Senior Tyler Wagner won the award for the best two-point field goal percentage hitting on 94 of 168 attempts for 55 percent and also had the most blocked shots with

Fillies win 3 of 4 in 40-team Clarksville Tournament

By Mike Aldridge, Sports writer

The Harrison County Fillies traveled to Clarksville, Tenn., last weekend and won three straight games before falling to Macon County, Tenn., 6-2 in the second game on Saturday.

The Fillies opened the tournament by playing Ohio County, Ky., (2-6) and edging the Lady Eagles by a 2-1 score.

Senior Ashley Coppage drove in both Fillies runs in the game with a double and a sacrifice fly.

Ohio County's pitching limited the Fillies to only two hits, the Coppage double and a single by Sydney Motell.

The Fillies played error-free ball in the five-inning game shortened by the time limit.

Jami Davis struck out nine and did not walk anyone to pick up the victory. Davis gave up four hits in the five innings.

The Fillies finished Friday's play with a 4-1 win over Clarksville Academy of Tennessee.

Morgan Grose drove in two runs in the game for the Fillies while Coppage drove in one with her fifth home run of the season.

Haley Powers drove in the fourth Harrison County run. Motell and Powers each scored a run with Coppage scoring twice.

Davis was again the winning pitcher allowing two hits and one run in the five-inning game. She struck out eight and walked one while her teammates again played error free.

Hume Fogg Academy, Tennessee, was the first Saturday opponent for the Fillies and Coach Christine Garnett handed the ball to sixth grader Bailey Conley to pitch for Harrison County.

Conley responded by picking up her first high school victory with a six-strike-out, one-walk effort.

Conley allowed six hits in six innings and again Harrison County was error free.

Jami Davis had three hits to lead the Fillies while Motell continued her good hitting with two more hits, two stolen bases and two runs.

Morgan Grose had the lone Fillies extra base hit with a double and Grose also scored twice.

Macon County took advantage of a fielding lapse by Harrison County to pull out the 6 to 2 win for Harrison County's first loss of the season leaving the Fillies with a 7-1 record.

Davis pitched for Harrison County and allowed seven hits in five innings and her fielders made three errors behind her.

In fact, only one of the Macon County runs was earned.

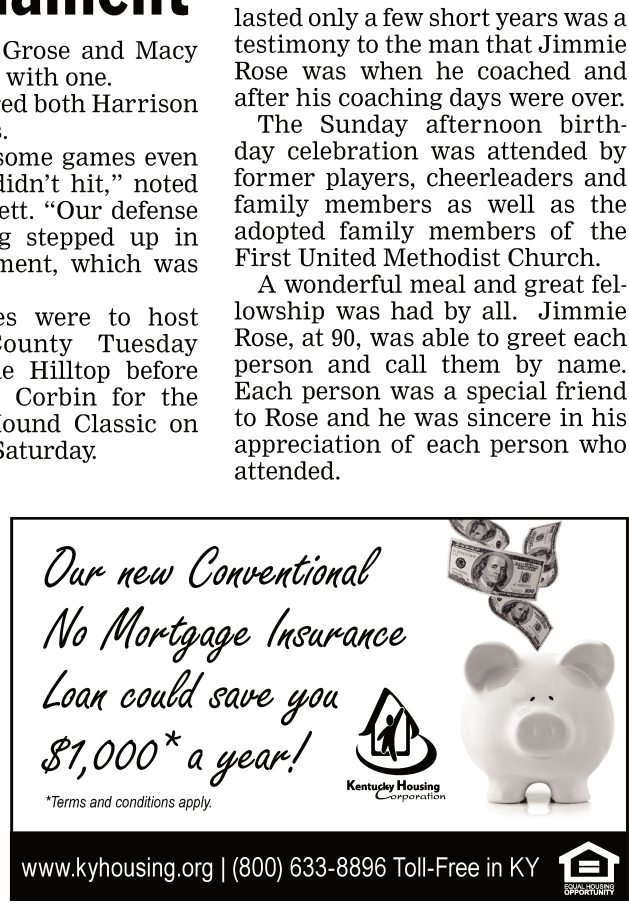

Macon County broke the game open in the top of the fourth when they turned a 2-2 game into a 6-2 affair scoring four times.

The Fillies only managed three hits for the game with Davis, Grose and Macy Martin each with one.

Gross scored both Harrison County runs.

"We won some games even though we didn't hit," noted Coach Garnett. "Our defense and pitching stepped up in this tournament, which was important."

The Fillies were to host Bourbon County Tuesday night on the Hilltop before traveling to Corbin for the Lady Red Hound Classic on Friday and Saturday.

Mike's Minute

The way it should be

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

I was so sorry to see that former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher died.

She was a reminder of how being tough minded and true to your beliefs is a great quality and not something to apologize for.

Thatcher's character fits right into what I wanted to write about this week so it is fitting that I mention her while I write this article.

I am not intimidated by a strong female, but instead appreciate the qualities that many such ladies possess.

Forty years of marriage has taught me a little anyway.

I also hope that I have helped raise a couple strong young ladies as well.

The alumni football game showed more Saturday night than the mere fact that once again Harrison County could beat Bourbon County in football.

The young men, relatively speaking, who played the game for the Thorobreds and the older person who coached them, demonstrated that community and school pride is worth battling for on every occasion.

There was also one other belief that was prevalent on this evening on the Harrison County sideline and that was a religious one that was there as well.

The community pride was easy to see.

The Harrison County side had four times more people than did the Bourbon County/Paris side.

The fans were not just family members of the players either. Many were, of course, but I saw several who were only in Paris to support the local players who were risking life and limbs, at least limbs, to play in the game.

It is a shame that the game could not be played in Ingles Stadium.

Many more Harrison County people would have been there and the portion of the proceeds that Paris High School received would have gone to Harrison County's football program.

As it was, the Harrison County alums had shirts made that say Harrison County Alumni Football on them which were sold that evening to raise a little money for the Harrison County program.

There are also some of these shirts left and I was told that they will be at Angilo's if anyone would like one.

Ken Morrison is kind enough to help the program by handling this for the alums.

The players also showed school pride and spirit by the way they prepared for the game and also how they played it.

The team members had three practices a week for several months to prepare for the game and most of them were obviously in better shape than the majority of their opposition.

They also played a clean, yet physical game which is the way football is meant to be played. I didn't see one cheap shot from the Harrison County 11 that was on the field.

The religious aspect was brought to the game largely by Coach Ray Graham and his son, David Nick.

The players though quickly bought into it as this was how Graham coached them when he was the head man on the hilltop.

A strong belief in God brings about other deep convictions which lead to positive results in many difficult endeavors and football is a difficult endeavor especially when a person hasn't played in a while.

Heck, football is difficult if one plays everyday, as I have said before it is not for everyone.

It certainly was for the men who played in Paris on Saturday on both sides.

Why we had to travel to Paris to witness that I'll let you ask your school officials. Maybe the Paris/Bourbon County administration is full of foolish risk takers?
